

THE YOUNG MAN NEEDS A BANK ACCOUNT

It furnishes an incentive for systematic saving; caring for the account teaches him methodical and business-like habits; it will give him absolute and correct tab on his income and expenses; it gets him in touch with business people; it gives him a chance to build up a credit at the bank, a credit that will be very valuable to him all his life; it is the one safe depository for his money, either large or small sums.

Six good reasons any one of which should be sufficient to cause you to start an account without delay.

Your account will receive careful and conservative attention at the

ANOTHER NEW YEAR WEDDING.

KITCHIN-LAWRENCE.

(Reported for The Commonwealth.)
For months and months had there been whispers of the approaching marriage of Miss Carrie Lawrence and Mr. Paul Kitchin, January 2nd.

Neyer in the history of Scotland Neck has such an array of beauty and splendor been displayed at the Baptist church, as when Carrie, the queenly and beautiful daughter of Mrs. Annie Lawrence, became the bride of Mr. Paul Kitchin, son of the late Captain W. H. Kitchin, and one of Scotland Neck's most prominent and able lawyers, chosen to represent Halifax county in the present Legislature.

The church was most elaborately decorated in white, green and yellow. Chrysanthemums were used profusely, and the candles held in silver candelabra made it a scene of brilliancy. While the church was crowded to the utmost capacity by friends, patiently waiting the bride party's arrival, they were entertained by Mrs. W. R. Bond who sang Schubert's Serenade, which touched the hearts of every one and all were held spellbound.

At the appointed hour, 8:30 p. m., the deep tones of the pipe organ, presided over by the talented Miss Annie Biggs in her usual graceful style, pealed forth several selections and the soft strains of Mendelssohn, announcing the arrival of the bride party. They entered as follows:

Ushers—Dr. J. P. Wimberley, Mess. Chas. McDowell, Stuart Smith, Leland Kitchin. Then the bridesmaids and groomsmen: Miss Ethel Dunn and Mr. Sam Hoffman, Miss Ione Pope and Mr. John B. Gray, Miss Pauline Tillery and Mr. Herbert McDowell, Miss Lucy Camp and Mr. J. A. Pittman, Miss Kathaleen Tillery and Mr. Hugh Kitchin, Miss Anna Kitchin and Mr. Chas. Lawrence. Then came the little pages, Masters James Lawrence and Bruce Tillery; then the bridesmaids, Mrs. J. P. Wimberley, sister of the bride, and Mrs. C. L. McDowell, sister of the groom, each groomed most beautifully in yellow messalines with lace over dresses, carrying yellow chrysanthemums. Then came little Miss Annie McDowell, ring bearer, dressed in a dainty dress of yellow messalines.

The bridesmaids were attired in white silk with yellow tulle sashes, carrying yellow chrysanthemums. Miss Reba Clark, the maid of honor, was daintily robed in white silk and carried white carnations.

The bride entered on the arm of her brother, Mr. W. O. Lawrence. She was most superbly groomed in white dutchess satin, en train, trimmed in rare old Irish lace, with ample tulle veil and orange blossoms, carrying a shower bouquet of bride's roses. Never did her girlish beauty show to a better advantage.

She was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Thurman Kitchin. Rev. G. T. Lumpkin united with the holy bonds of wedlock the happy couple, employing his usual simple yet withal beautiful and impressive ceremony.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the bride party retired to the home of the bride, where an elegant reception awaited them. The parlors and drawing room were most beautifully decorated in palms, ferns and profusions of yellow chrysanthemums.

After the bride and groom were showered with best wishes and hearty congratulations they were invited in the spacious dining room, which was most brilliantly lighted and handsomely decorated in white, green and yellow, where dainty refreshments were served consisting of turkey sandwiches, beaten biscuits, chicken salad, olives, coffee, cream and cake, carrying out the color scheme.

In the drawing room was an elaborate display of wedding presents, attesting the popularity of the young couple. When the music and feasting were over, the good wishes were spoken and farewells taken.

On the evening of Dec. 25th, at 8 o'clock at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. G. Roe, Miss Martha Haskett was married to Mr. T. E. Dail of Norfolk, Va. It was a quiet marriage, only a few friends being present to witness the ceremony. Rev. G. W. Phelps performed the ceremony.

Mr. Dail is a young business man of Norfolk, Va., and has many friends here and at other places.

The bride is the youngest daughter of the late T. B. Haskett, and has a host of friends here and at other places where she is known.

They left Thursday, Dec. 27th, for Norfolk, Va. where they will make their home. All their friends wish them a long and happy life together.

Robert E. Lee. The children of the graded school will also be present. Mr. P. N. Stainback, of Weldon, will be the orator of the occasion and the public generally will be invited to hear him. Mr. Stainback is a ready and fluent speaker and all who hear him will enjoy it.

It is expected that the old soldiers will be served with oysters.

It will be a pleasant occasion and one in which the people of Scotland Neck and community will take keen interest.

Complimentary to Miss Camp.

King's Business College Journal which is issued from King's Business College of Raleigh, in which Miss Lucy Camp has been studying three months, spoke highly of her recently as follows:

"Miss Lucy Camp, of Scotland Neck, N. C., a student of the Shorthand Department, has only been with us about two months, but she has been for some time taking dictation. She is a faithful, intelligent worker, and finished the work in the least average time. She is indeed an attractive young woman."
